

Members can be segmented into types and groups. Organizing members into categories helps a portal administrator make content and features available only to specific members.

Member Types & Groups

Member Types

Create member types in the application or administrative process. Members automatically belong to the “all members” type.

Member Groups

Create member groups and allow a member to manage the group. The member administrator can add or delete other members in the group.

Discussion Forums

Link to a discussion forum from the member dashboards. Forums can be restricted to specific member types.

Members Only Content

Post content and make it “members only”. Select the member types that can view that content.

Members Only Catalogs

Add a content catalog and make it viewable only by certain member types. The catalog can have a privacy message or be hidden from view.

Member Dashboards

Create custom member dashboards for each member type.
